

Kandu's GROSS OUT Tricky Bottles

Want to try Spinach Soda or Tomato Pop?

The magician and a child volunteer each have a bottle and a metal cover. Each of them holds a bottle at the bottom and the cover from the top with the thumb inside and 3 fingers outside. The bottles are covered. While holding the cover with one hand on top and one hand on the bottom, they both turn their bottles and covers over three times.

The magician raises his tube to show his bottle is now upright, but unfortunately, the child's is upside down.

The magician asks the child to turn the bottle over and start again. The magician and the child start over but this time after three turns, the magician takes two fingers and pulls his bottle out by the neck while the child struggles to get his fingers around his bottle which is still upside down. The magician and the child change bottles to see if that will help.

After completing the same moves, the child's bottle is still upside down.

Finally, the magician has the child hold the magician's bottle and cover. The cover is lifted to show the bottle upright and when the wand is waved, the tube is lifted again and the bottle is now upside down!

The child has performed MAGIC!
